

Appeals to Dependency Status

An appeal may be warranted to your dependency status if an unusual, mitigating circumstance exists between you and your parent(s). This cannot be based on whether your parents want to complete the form or want to provide you with the help to pay for College expenses. It must be based on an unusual situation. Some reasons for an appeal to your dependency status are listed below:

1. Your parent(s) are incarcerated.
2. Your parent(s) live in a war-torn country and you are unable to communicate/correspond with them.
3. Your parent(s) is/are mentally incapacitated.
4. You are estranged from your parent because of an abusive situation that can be documented.
5. Other mitigating circumstance as documented by the applicant.
